What's On London: East Meets West at Design Centre

Coming this November, a new exhibition focusing on the influence of the Far East

BY REBECCA COX \(/AUTHOR/REBECCA/\)

This season, Design Centre Chelsea Harbour is launching a new exhibition focusing on the culture, creativity and influence of the Far East. The show, titled East Meets West, is in association with Asian Art in London.

East Meets West at Design Centre Chelsea Harbour

The upcoming exhibition at the Design Centre explores how Eastern style has caught the imagination of the West. With top designers, architects, collectors and dealers, the exhibition will aim to promote London as a centre of expertise for Asian art.

The selling exhibition will take visitors on a journey of exploration of Eastern influences through contemporary Asian treasures and rare antique artefacts.

Included in the exhibition will be an impressive aerial installation encapsulating the theme. A colourful selection of works by a host of Chinese contemporary artists, represented by ArtChina, in mixed media, modern ceramics, landscape painting and folding prints will merge craft and fine art.

In addition, Antiques Young Guns, will show works from The Japanese Gallery, using a broad sweep of decorative influences from tea sets and scientific instruments to Samurai armory, exquisite porcelain and paintings, to show the timeless appeal of the Eastern aesthetic.

An impressive roster of contemporary Japanese artists, represented by Kamal Bakhshi, will also be on show. Colourful murals, abstract woodcuts and block prints will show to ever fluid line between classic and contemporary techniques and aesthetics in Eastern art.
